What happens when you transplant 195 hp onto the nose of a Skyhawk? When the world's largest manufacturer of general aviation airplanes decided to bring out a new model back in 1976, you can bet they'd researched the market and were convinced there were eager buyers waiting for it. In the case of the Cessna [...]Cessna finally released the Special Inspection Documents (SIDs) for its 100 series aircraft. These call out for numerous additional inspections depending on hours and service and age. The 400/300 series twins were the first to get SIDs and their market value collapsed since then. The 100 series ...An aircraft type designator is a two-, three- or four-character alphanumeric code designating every aircraft type (and some sub-types) that may appear in flight planning. These codes are defined by both the International Civil Aviation Organization and the International Air Transport Association. ICAO codes are published in ICAO Document 8643 Aircraft Type Designators and are used by air ...This is a list of the most-produced aircraft types whose numbers exceed or exceeded 5,000.
