Transform your pain into power! It is said that pain and suffering is the greatest way to awaken us and force us into a transformation. Sometimes our life habits can become extremely stubborn and hard to break voluntarily. Transforming Your Pain Into Purpose The challenges of life can be overwhelming. But when your source of hope comes from the Source of all power, you will experience His new mercies in each new day. All the pain you are feeling right now is because you're maligned from your life purpose and the beautiful being you want to be. You impose self-limitations on everything you can become because you just want to answer to the world's reprimands and feel worthy of that acceptance. Find purpose in your pain: No matter what you are going through there is possibility in your pain. Find inspiration from the incredible people in your own life or in history who have triumphed over seemingly insurmountable obstacles. People such as, Viktor Frankle, Nelson Mandela, Mahatma Gandhi, Rosa Parks and Helen Keller are all incredible examples of people who have turned their pain into ultimate power.
